A REMARKABLE CASE OF CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

From the St Joseph Mo, Herald Dec 19

The Circuit Court of Nodaway county has been in session during the past week Judge I C Parker presiding. Most of the time was occupied in the trial of Solomon McAlpine for the murder of John Callicott developed in a most singular case of circumstantial evidence. In August 1866 these two young men left Holly [illegible] Iowa to come to St Joseph to buy apples expecting to load their wagon here and return to Iowa to sell their fruit. Not long after—some few days we believe—McAlpine returned to Holly [illegible] told some plausible story about his partner having made other arrangements and gone on to St Joseph and for some time no further notice was taken of the matter. The continued absence of Callicott and the fact that nothing was heard from him finally induced the arrest of McAlpine but on his examination nothing was elicited criminating him and he was discharged. A long search for Callicott proved unavailing and for eighteen months a profound mystery enveloped the case

In March 1868 a party of railroad engineers, surveying the route of the Missouri Valley Railroad some six miles northeast of Marysville, found the skeleton of a man. An investigation aroused the suspicion that it was the remains of Callicott. The authorities in Iowa were written to and witnesses were brought down. The mother of Callicott recognized a bony protuberance on the chin of the skeleton also the absence of a tooth drawn on the day he started on his fatal trip and his mother preserved the tooth. It fitted the jaw of the skeleton and a dentist testified it had been drawn from the orifice. Pieces of a blue coat and several peculiar buttons were found near the skeleton. These were recognized as resembling parts of Callicott's dress when he left home. There were three bullet holes in the skull.

The identification was so complete that McAlpine was re arrested and after several continuances the case came to trial last Monday and resulted in the conviction of the prisoner. The Judge instructed the jury that any facts or want of proof mitigating the crime from murder in the first degree need not restrain their rendering a verdict of murder in the second degree, or manslaughter. The jury, after mature deliberation, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree. We learn that neither the prisoner or his friends or attorneys manifest any dissatisfaction with the verdict, and the case will not be appealed

On the evening of December 8th the subject "Our Relations with America" was discussed by the Juridical Society of London. The question was brought under consideration in a paper read by Sir George Young, a proposed statement for decision by an international arbitrator of the differences now existing between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States arising out of the late war

A telegraphic dispatch from Marseilles states that on Dec 9 some houses having been lit up in honor of the fete of the Immaculate Conception a band of 1 500 persons paraded the streets, testifying their displeasure before the houses which were illuminated and singing the "Marseillaise" and the "Chant du Depart." They afterwards went to the Bishop's palace and to the Jesuits residence the sentinel stationed before the former being slightly injured. The rioters then directed their steps to the Prefecture where they arrived about midnight and broke some lamps. Several groups were dispersed by a strong detachment of sergeants-de-ville, directed by a Commissary of Police. About sixty arrests were made

The North German Correspondent of Berlin known as the organ of Count de Bismarck publishes a long defence of Prussian policy in a recent issue. The article is intended as a reply to a political and semi biographical article in a late number of the Edinburg Review, bearing as title the name of the North German Chancellor, and professing to reveal the motives and considerations by which the King of Prussia was induced in 1866 to declare war with Austria. The reply contains the following important passage: "It is well known to the initiated that Venice had been ceded to France before a shot was fired in 1866 and that on the 12th of June of that year, one day after the letter of the Emperor Napoleon to the Minister Drouyn de Lhuys a convention was concluded between the Cabinets of Vienna and Paris, according to which France, after the overthrow of Prussia was to be indemnified by compensations, or in other words by the left bank of the Rhine

At 10 19 o'clock in the evening, however without any previous warning, the ground began to tremble far more violently than it had done since the 22d ult. Three [illegible] shocks were distinguished, and they lasted together seven or eight seconds. The sensation is described as resembling what would be felt if the whole surface of the earth were sliding down an inclined plane. MONDAY MORNING JANUARY 10 1870

A few words about the approaching Campaign

The leaders and wire pullers of the Democratic party of this State met at this city last Saturday to arrange for the campaign of 1870 Their organ in this city announces that they came together each one bringing in telligence of the hopefulness of the Democracy in their several counties of an easy victory next June whereby we are reminded to enjoin upon the Republicans of the State their earnest attention to a few matters concerning their part in the coming struggle

In the first place it is plain enough we suppose, to all, that if the Republicans win the next election, they will do it at the expense of a hard fought battle in which our forces will fight side by side and in which every weapon shall be aimed at the enemy and not at one another In plain words there must be no divisions to distract the common effort The Republican and Democratic polls in the whole State are undoubtedly more nearly equal than the result in either of the last two elections would indicate Three years ago we carried the State against one of the weakest Democratic tickets ever put up in the State Last year, through the malign influences of Andrew Johnson's Apostacy, the whole power of the Executive patronage, importations and fraudulent voting, and unfortunate divisions in our own party, State and county, we were beaten by a majority so far above anything estimated by either side and so much greater than the Democracy can ever hope to gain again, as to be no criterion by which to judge of what may be the results of the next contest We believe, from the very best lights now before us that, on a square, honest poll of the State, there is not a difference in the relative strength of the two parties of more than two hundred and fifty or three hundred votes The fence men and the floating vote will decide the election.

The contest is not by any means a hopeless one for the Republicans, nor the result a foregone conclusion Our party has got just this sort of an outlook If men of integrity and character, with liberal views and sound sense, are put upon our tickets, State and county, we can stand at least a fair chance to carry the whole State ticket, and a good majority of the Legislature. Particularly must good sense and sound policy have their way in the nomination of candidates for State offices. We do not want any man put on that ticket simply because he wants to be there, or a clamorous knot of personal friends want to place him there. The men to compose the State ticket should be chosen because the general voice of the party asks for them We feel justified by past experience and observation, in saying that if candidates are pushed upon the ticket through sectional or clannish influences, in the face of any considerable opposition, their defeat is a foregone conclusion. The men to succeed, if any can, are those who will be not only personally and sectionally strong, but acceptable to the party in all parts of the State With such men, on our State, Legislative and local tickets, we can carry the State

But to carry the State with even such a ticket, will require vigilant work, harmonious effort, mutual concessions where conflicting interests meet, and a vigorous pull all together from now till election day The Democracy are already at work, setting up their men, securing every possible floating influence, pensioning strikers, colonizing where they can in doubtful counties, and in general preparing their camp for an early and active campaign If Republicans desire to win, they must immediately begin the effort It is not too soon, at least, to inaugurate the means of circulating good campaign documents throughout every nook and corner of the State When the State Central Committee meets, this should be made one of its principal subjects of consideration We have so much faith in the intelligence and integrity of the people that we believe that to set the political issues fairly before them in print, is a better means of securing their support than the usual way, practiced by Democratic strikers of attempting to buy votes with whisky.

We have, for our encouragement in the approaching campaign, one powerful influence less against us, and one powerful influence for us which we did not have in the last. Andrew Johnson, elected by the Republican party, apostatized and while his wrong-doing was successfully shouldered upon us, his entire patronage was exercised in behalf of the Democracy His mal-administration was made to appear in some degree the work of the Republican party. He was powerful enough to baulk and pervert the Republican policy so as to make it appear in some degree pernicious. The national finances were badly managed by his secretaries, and the blame was laid upon the financial policy instead of the bunglers who had it in charge The fact cannot be denied that this weighed heavily against us. This year this is all changed We have a Republican President whose policy is in accordance with the general principles of his party; whose influence is for instead of against us The excellent management of the national finances under his administration has, within the first year demonstrated the soundness of the Republican policy in respect to the payment of the public debt, and the reduction of taxes, has been such as to challenge the admiration of the most astute financiers of the world, and to firmly re-establish the national credit which was so nearly wrecked by Andrew Johnson We can go forth in this campaign and point with pride to the success which has attended the first year of Republican administration, since the war,—a success which annihilates every Democratic argument wielded against us with such telling effect in our last State canvass. We say to the Democrats of this State that they are wide of the mark when they count certainly upon winning a victory next June

The Cleveland Herald says Mr Chase's friends in Ohio are playing a deep game, and playing it to win It notices the significant fact that the Democratic press of that State have suddenly become very reticent on the subject of the Fifteenth amendment, asserts that it has been settled that the ratification of that amendment shall be carried by the votes of the "independent" Democratic legislators, and forewarns the rank and file who are now cursing the "nigger," that "three years hence they will find Mr Chase the Democratic candidate and the greatest claim he will present for the vote of the negroes will be that his friends carried the Fifteenth amendment through the Ohio Legislature"

The President has much information which will be sent to Congress, and will prove that the insurgents have no Government in Cuba and nothing bearing the semblance of one It is notorious that General Grant desired nothing more than good ground for Cuban recognition, but, their being none he was compelled to let the gun boats depart The advocates of Cuban recognition are small in number now the cause is abandoned as hopeless

A Suez Canal on a Small Scale.—In 1697 New England shipowners undertook the project of uniting Barnstable and Buzzard's Bay by means of a ship canal across Cape Cod For lack of proper management the scheme fell through It has now, however been revived, with strong assurances of success Boston and New York capitalists have undertaken the project, and having ample funds to carry it out, they only await the consent of the Massachusetts Legislature to begin operations It will be seen from a glance at the map that there is only a narrow neck of land separating the waters of the two bays Now more than forty thousand trips of vessels connected with the coasting trade of New York, Philadelphia and Southern ports, and carrying cargoes to the value of more than $200,000,000 annually pass around the Cape From these figures it will be seen that a great saving of time and distance will be secured by the construction of this canal which is to be some three hundred feet wide Another great advantage that will follow will be the immunity secured from the dangers of "off Cape Cod" in stormy weather. In seventeen years nine hundred marine disasters have occurred thereabouts It is estimated that this canal, in addition to saving over $1,000 000 annually by shortening the time of passage will also save many lives and over $200 000 every year by diminishing the number of shipwrecks Opposition to the enterprise is anticipated from no quarter but the Cape Codders who with their proverbial fondness for antiquity may object to having their sacred soil invaded in this manner

Grant County

[From the Canyon City Journal, [illegible]]

Under the above caption we design to jot down a few unvarnished facts and make a few suggestions

Here, as elsewhere upon the discovery of gold in 1862 quite an excitement was created throughout the country, and the hardy yeomanry poured in by thousands The dark canyons which for years immemorial had heard no sound save the whoop of the Indian or the howl of the wild beasts were lighted by flaming camp fires and resounded with joyous choruses of buoyant miners The lofty pine bowed in submission to the woodman's ax and the log cabin went up as by magic The sound of the pick and shovel enlivened the day, while the clink of gold and glasses animated the night The influx of gold together with that taken from the mines, were put into circulation creating what is usually termed "good times"

There being but few facilities for mining many hands were employed to do the same amount of work now performed with less than half the manual labor, under our present improved system Here again the money placed in the hands of the laborer, was put in circulation at stores gaming tables and hurdy-gurdy saloons, and "flush times" were the results For two years and upward this state of affairs with slight variations, continued The derrick and hydraulic having superceded the barrow and old methods many laborers were discharged and owners of rich mining claims saved their money for future use Right here there seemed to be a decline in the money market but Indian hostilities calling the attention of the military this way agriculture stepped in and for a time sustained the monetary interests of the country Our county continued prosperous and money plenty until one year since when farmers, with their graneries full (2 600 000 pounds in the aggregate) were obliged to keep their grain on hand or sell at a sacrifice This misfortune well nigh proved our ruin Farmers had incurred heavy expenses in the improvement and cultivation of their farms, merchants had procured heavy stocks to supply the growing demand and with a sudden and unexpected reverse of our greenback currency, we were left almost without a dollar Again the miner came to the rescue and saved the county from bankruptcy. Our merchants acted with a magnanimity worthy the higher professions Had they pressed their claims nearly every farmer would have been ruined On the contrary, however we do not remember of a single instance where the trader has brought suit against the well disposed farmer of the valley. This is as it should be Our interests are mutual, and isolated as we are from the rest of mankind, we ought rather to encourage than oppress each other. Like Phœnix of old, we are slowly but surely rising from our own ashes, and hope ere long, by industry and economy to occupy a position not inferior to our elder neighbors

Our resources are equal to any county in the State The development of our mineral wealth owing to the hostility of the Indians, is but in embryo True, we have numerous mining localities and some claims of fabulous richness The following comprise the principal camps Canyon City, Marysville, Prairie Diggings, Dixie Creek Elk Creek, Olive Creek Canyon creek although worked for the last seven years is not yet exhausted of its minerals. The Chinese, however, are purchasing claims from the "superior race," at exhorbitant prices, and no doubt design working on a more economical system Marysville (hill and gulch diggings) presents the power and superiority of hydraulics over muscle. Wm Clark, last season, cleaned up over $8,000, Thompson & Co. also cleaned up handsomely Prairie Diggings at present consists of auriferous quartz, with a five stamp mill in successful operation. Five additional stamps, amalgamating pans, etc, have lately arrived, and we predict that next season, this enterprising company will realize in part their most sanguine anticipations Dixie Creek proper, is worked principally by Chinese Prairie Flat, the mouth of Dixie, is owned and worked by Americans, and contains an area of about 500,000 square yards of mining ground all of which will pay good wages, while the larger portion will pay from $12 to $20 a day to the hand. The principal owners on this flat are Webster & Co and Kropp & Co, whose large ditches and tailing flumes show an enterprise worthy of imitation Elk Creek is noted more for its quartz than placer diggings That which is most wanted at this camp is capital to develop the numerous ledges and make the quartz mill a paying institution Olive Creek has rich placer diggings, with a better prospect of water than ever before The Burnt river mines, discovered only a few years since and but little prospected, give flattering demonstrations of richness. Parker & Co with only six weeks run, cleaned up $17 000, Howard & Co, in three weeks $5,000, and Winters & Co did well, but we have not been able to learn the figures The Blue mountains are believed to contain heavy deposits and immense treasures of precious metals, but neither the energy or capital is here to unfold them.

In addition to our mineral wealth, our agricultural resources are great There has been taken for agricultural purposes about 15,000 acres of arable land—3,000 of which are under cultivation, yielding an average of 22½ bushels to the acre Many thousand acres still lie vacant, subject to pre-emption or homestead Our soil is adapted to cereals of all kinds, and the tender vegetables, such as tomatoes, melons, etc, are produced in abundance Our orchards are young and present a healthy appearance. We saw last season a bunch of cherries and a pear—the first fruits of this county.

We have one flouring mill—the Pioneer, which turns out a No 1 quality of flour. Also four sawmills, all crowded to their utmost capacity—in fact, unable to supply the demand We learn, however, that another water power and a steam sawmill are in course of erection Also a distillery is being built at Prairie City

Our grazing advantages are unsurpassed, our beeves are raised and fatted with but little expense and always ready for the stall With a salubrious climate, our cattle are always healthy therefore always command the highest market prices

In addition to our other preferences, we are on the natural thoroughfare between the Dalles on the Columbia, and Boise City, Idaho Heretofore this route has been ignored first, on account of Indian hostilities, and second, on account of the selfish influences used against it The distance between the points named via Canyon City is at least 170 miles less than by way of the Columbia river, and in every other respect superior to that road for immigration or general travel The pass through the Blue Mountains by this way is of such easy grade that the traveler is unconscious of crossing the most formidable barrier between the Cascade and Rocky Mountains In fact, it is the best pass ever found through the Blue Mountain range Along the whole length of the route is an abundance of good grass and water for camping purposes and as Indian hostilities have ceased the immigrant may journey in safety and with but little expense

Having briefly and truthfully summed up our resources and general advantages, who will pretend to say that we are not a highly favored people? Finally, we invite immigration, we court competition

Among our necessities are greater mail facilities With a population of upward of 5,000 souls scattered over an area of 1 500 square miles, we have only a weekly mail and but one postoffice, while in other portions of the State the people are favored with semi weekly, tri weekly and even daily mails For the last six years a large portion of our population (mostly miners) have been compelled to pay twenty five cents expressage on every letter sent or received by them This is not as it should be We need a tri weekly mail from Dalles City, via Canyon City and Willow Creek, to Boise City, with a branch line from Canyon City via Dixie and Burnt River to Baker City This would for the present supply our wants in mail matters

We need capital to assist in the development of our quartz lodes

We need more of a working population to develop our agricultural resources, and finally we shall need a railroad to carry off the surplus products of Grant county

English Newspaper Enterprise.—The London Times telegraphed the greater part of the President's message for its exclusive use All the other papers were lost in astonishment and awe at this magnificent example of enterprise It was stupendous All London fell down and worshiped the Times Was not this a course of admiration really a striking proof of the absence of enterprise in the management of English papers? The Times, with a yearly profit of not less than £100 000 actually goes to a trifling outlay for a four column Message by cable—and the English people cry out as if a miracle had been performed or a wondrous portent had appeared in the heavens We do feats of that kind every day in the year and think nothing of them Only yesterday we had about a page and a half telegraphic news and a leading article upon the Alabama correspondence which was still coming over the wires at one this morning The English journals are well written but they do not know what enterprise in getting news means The Times has fallen behind the age and the Telegraph is afraid to spend money Another John Walter (the first) is wanted in London He would stir up the business His successors have been more in the grabbers and anglers after a peerage.—N Y Times

MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 10, 1870

CITY.

AT THE LAKE.—The proceeding at the lake yesterday were about as follows Eight o'clock A M—ice apparently solid skating very good several boys gliding smoothly Nine o'clock—crowd of boys increasing a few larger boys joining Skating fair Ten—crowd still gathering quite a sprinkling of ladies and many men ice begins to soften a little, and cracks frequently Half past ten a stranger goes through and flounders out seeks the shore. Eleven o'clock thirty five minutes another gets a cold bath on account of the weakness of the ice Some of the more cautious retire. Ten forty five minutes—two others seemed suddenly to embrace the Baptist faith for like Philip and the Eunuch they both went down into the water At this time a few of the more flighty "ones' skedaddled" for terra firma and the skating was quoted dull Eleven o'clock—an ex-alderman made a dive for the bottom of the lake, which fortunately was not far At this all the grown ones quit the field except the most venturesome, and these glided shy of thin places Twelve M—the men were all off but one and but few of the boys were left A young man from Front street proclaimed the absence of all danger and "grated" over the surface in his most graceful style, assuring those on shore that the ice was good till suddenly it weakened under him and he went down where it was about waist deep His first attempts to get out were futile As often as he got up, he went down His friends began to make preparations to rig an ice-cutter to his [illegible] and let him cut his way to land but he finally succeeded in getting on a firm spot and then to the shore He immediately started home This last break had the effect to clear the lake of skaters, and the day's sport ended How matters will progress to day is uncertain.

Marion County Teachers Association

Mr W T Ramsey of Marion county sends us the following account of the late Teachers meeting at Silverton to which we give place with pleasure, though it comes to hand rather late

FRIDAY, December 31 1869

EDITOR OREGONIAN

The Marion County Teachers Association held its Eleventh Session in the town of Silverton commencing on Tuesday December 28th 1869 and continuing in session until the following Friday There were thirty five teachers present The General subject of discussion was English Grammar but some portions of Arithmetic and Algebra were discussed

The evening sessions were devoted to addresses declamations etc

In thoroughness of investigation and the courteous deportment of members the session stands without a parallel in the history of the Association Throughout the entire session not an angry or unpleasant word disturbed the deliberations

The interest, liberality and good feelings of the Silvertonians were too observable to need comment

This Association has been in existence about five years It has always been a success and although it has known some stormy scenes and has lost most of its earlier leaders it is to day in point of intelligence and capacity for usefulness more powerful than ever before, and still looks forward with unbounded confidence to the good time coming when Oregon shall be blessed with a State Normal Institute and a wisely directed system of free schools Of all the various interests of a State no other is of such vast importance to its future prosperity and honor as the education of its youth and yet Oregon has barely the semblance of a system of public schools It is strange that this greatest of all the interests of the State should be allowed thus to slumber in unbroken neglect New England is justly proud of her world renowned system of common schools The younger States of the Mississippi Valley are following closely in her wake while the regenerated South, so lately rent and riven by the fiery tempests of war is building upon the shattered ruins of long cherished ignorance a new status of popular intelligence

The progressive educational spirit of the Atlantic States with stately tread proudly ascends the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, and breaking in dashing waves over the solemn stillness of the snow clad Sierras, awakens a thousand responsive echoes in the popular heart of our sister State But alas! in the rich refrain the voice of Oregon is not heard Of her abundant wealth no dollar has she ever yet appropriated to the education of the masses of her children By the limited assistance derived from county assessments, the schools are enabled to eke out a short lived existence of a few months in each year and then the children are turned loose to forget in idleness the little that they have learned

We need an improved system of school laws and a liberal allowance of money to keep the schools in operation W T R

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we have had an agreeable and profitable session and are glad that we met.

Resolved, that our thanks are due our friends for music

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association are especially due and are hereby gratefully tendered to the people of Silverton for the unbounded hospitality with which they have entertained friends and teachers from a distance

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association are tendered to Rev T. H Small, Major Joseph Magone, and Hon T W Davenport, for the highly practical and interesting addresses with which they have favored us

Resolved, That the Secretary is requested to furnish copies of these resolutions, with a brief abstract of proceedings to the leading journals of the State with a request that they be published

WM SIMPSON Sec'y

Silverton December 31st, 1869

THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.—The New York Times in an article on the question of whether a State having once ratified an amendment to the Constitution can afterwards withdraw it, argues that it cannot The reasons by which it supports this conclusion are ingenious and will interest some of our readers It says

An amendment to the Constitution of the United States is an act of the people of the United States and not an act of the States as such. A Congress of the United States or a Convention of the people of the United States must first adopt any proposed amendment and then submit it for ratification to the people who are to vote by States for the sake of convenience but not as States The amendments are not submitted to the several States for ratification, but to the legislatures of the States or to conventions elected by the people in the several States Whether the sense of the people shall be taken by means of the legislatures or by conventions is to be determined by Congress and not by the States and it is by virtue of a federal law alone that either a legislature or a convention can act at all upon the subject When therefore the legislature of New York, by its resolution of last winter declared in favor of the Fifteenth Amendment it enacted no law of the State nor was it acting under or by virtue of the Constitution of the State or of any part thereof but solely by virtue of and under the Constitution and laws of the United States Under a law of the United States the legislature of this State was specially empowered to do a certain act—namely, empowered to take a vote upon a question proposed by Congress It performed that act last winter and when it declared the vote in favor of the amendment its function under the act of Congress was ended When the single duty authorized was performed and the result reported to the Secretary at Washington the legislature thereupon had fulfilled its office and ceased to have further jurisdiction over the subject. Had the law of Congress required the vote to be taken by a convention instead of a legislature and had such convention ratified the amendment and adjourned it would hardly have been suggested that a second and unauthorized convention could be called together to reverse the action of the first The federal Constitution makes no distinction between the action of the legislature and that of a convention According to it they are alike simply bodies available in the premises And when the legislature of last year voted upon the Fifteenth Amendment it had no other or greater power than a convention when it had once taken action the question submitted passed beyond its jurisdiction.

The Schenectady Star is puzzling itself over the conundrum why girls can dress so thinly as they do and still keep warm and relates the following startling experience We once rode with a girl in an open cutter fifteen miles on one of the coldest nights of winter and while we sat frozen nigh as stiff as a stake our teeth chattering like castinets she kept up an animated conversation every now and then exclaiming Oh! isn't this delightful Don't you enjoy it? When we arrived at our destination, notwithstanding we were dressed a great deal warmer than our fair companion she had to lift us out of the cutter and conduct us to the tropical atmosphere of the kitchen of a farm house On the return trip we were frozen to death at last [illegible] the corpse home It must be that girls are tougher than we men people

Home Questions for the Sickly and Debilitated.

It is worth while to endure penal torture after every meal when indigestion can be immediately relieved and permanently cured by so agreeable a remedy as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS?

Does it pay to be compelled by debility and languor to abandon active business when brain nerve and muscle can be braced up and the whole system restored to a healthy condition by a course of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

Why approach the dinner table daily with a positive disgust for all that is savory and delicious when a vigorous appetite for even the plainest fare is created by the use of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

Is it wise to live in this bright world as if it were a dungeon gloomy discontented and miserable when the worst case of hypochondria can be cured in a week by such a pleasant and wholesome exhilarant as HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

Can it be possible that any person of bilious habit will run the risk of remittent fever or billious colic when he can tone and regulate the great secretive organ with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

Is it not a species of [illegible] for any [illegible] or planter in the interior or any traveler [illegible] on the places to be without the best known antidote to the effects of poisoned air and impure water HOSTETTER'S BITTERS!

Considering the harassing and depressing nature of the functional derangements to which woman is subject is it not astonishing that any invalid of the feebler sex should hesitate to seek the certain relief afforded in such cases by the genial operation of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS!

These are questions of deeper interest than any of the political dogmas of the day and those who they concern are invited to give them something more than a passing thought

Mr Peabody's Loyalty

Mr Thurlow Weed has given at length a letter to the New York [illegible] the evidence [illegible] regarding the [illegible] held by Mr Peabody during the late war. The evidence is [illegible] previous [illegible] at this time [illegible] namely that [illegible] an earnest deprecation of the war with a strong sympathy with the Union [illegible] the whole conflict. Mr Weed [illegible] a letter by recapitulating his acquaintance with Mr Peabody beginning [illegible] and [illegible] the day before his late departure for England. Mr Weed knew of the intention to establish a fund for the [illegible] as early as 1852 and in 1868 he knew of the plan to give liberally for the education of the South. Credit is given to Mr Winthrop for the plan which was finally adopted.

Mr Weed was in England in 1861 and in a long conversation detailed to Mr Peabody the evidence that the rebellion was premeditated and inevitable. Mr Peabody in reply said that the North was stronger than he had supposed, that his sympathies had never been with the Abolitionists, but that the war having broken out he was for the Union and would do in England whatever he could for the success of the cause. He afterwards brought Mr Weed into communication with leading men in Parliament and out of it, to whom he expressed similar views, and otherwise assisted Mr Weed to success in his semi official mission. Mr Peabody was disturbed, with other friends of the Union, by the perversions and misstatements of news of the war, and tried hard to secure a reform in that respect, but without success. He even offered to contribute liberally of his means to accomplish a change but no practicable plan could be decided upon, and the effort to induce Mr Reuter to infuse a little more of the spirit of justice into the press despatches was finally abandoned.

Mr. Weed controverts also the story that the rebel agents and sympathizers in London were familiar with Mr Peabody and were cordially received by him. The writer says that during his whole residence in London he never encountered a secessionist at Mr Peabody's bank or lodgings, and this notwithstanding an almost daily intercourse with the banker. Mr Weed gives other corroborative incidents to show that he had an active sympathy with the North. He received news of the success at Fort Donelson some hours before it was publicly known. He drove to Mr Weed's lodgings with the news and then went to our legation to carry the good tidings to Mr Adams. That evening there was quite a gathering of English sympathisers with the Union, brought together by Mr Peabody at Mr Weed's rooms, to rejoice over the victory. We give one brief extract from Mr Weed's letter as cumulative evidence, though it will be admitted that further testimony is not needed.

"In the attempts that were made by confederate sympathizers in Parliament to induce a recognition of the rebel Government and to destroy our blockade, Mr Peabody manifested his devotion to the North by zealous efforts in our favor. He authorized me, as I have no doubt he did my colleague, Bishop McIlvaine, to call on him, whenever I thought he could be of service to our cause. To all, and there were many English capitalists, who applied to Mr Peabody for information relating to confederate loans, he pronounced them worthless. And I hazard nothing in saying, that he never directly or indirectly, gave aid or comfort, encouragement or countenance to rebel representatives or to individual rebels. That in his general conversations deprecating the war, as was his habit, he was frequently misunderstood, I can believe; that many Americans honestly suppose that his sympathies were with the South, I can understand; but they certainly misapprehended him."

If the stern Pilgrim Fathers could come back and see some of their anniversaries, they would be surprised and perhaps scandalized to find them so full of jokes and so stuffed with epigrams and puns. Even the New-Englanders themselves grow jocose on the subject. Mr. Beecher, for instance, on the recent occasion said some facetious things about the sufferings undergone at the Delmonico banquet in sympathy with the forefathers of the Mayflower. The fun of it was wonderfully sly and had some of the "miching malhecho" which generally means mischief. Then there was Mayor Hall; his good things were pyrotechnic—he rioted in "points" and made everybody laugh, especially when he said Manhattan Island was the true Plymouth Rock, and the "theatre" of New York would shortly be under a single stage manager. Mr Barret brought out his pun also on behalf of St Patrick in some respects a greater one than others. It was altogether a hilarious affair, showing the tendency of men and things to turn Plymouth Rock into the "Blarney stone of New England."

We blush for her sex as we record it, but Miss Susan B Anthony has had to call on a man to help her. At a recent meeting in Brooklyn she took for her theme the proposition that "it is a false theory that all women were born to be supported," but "her voice was low," says the report, "her manner listless," and, before she had spoken long, she suddenly turned to Mr Beecher and said:

"Mr Beecher, I can't speak; the spirit don't move me. I can face a lion's den—walk through it, but I can't speak here to night. Do get up a fight, then, perhaps, I can speak."

Mr. Beecher, who is a man of peace, declined to accommodate Miss Anthony by getting up a fight, but he gallantly came to her assistance. He reproved her, however, by saying that her confession was a humiliating one. He had thought women were competent to take care of themselves, and of all women he had supposed Miss Anthony could do so with the greatest ability. "After all," he concluded, "however, though women may put on the airs of men, they're not men."

THE WORKMAN AHEAD.—A good story is told of a certain prominent railroad gentleman of Philadelphia, who is equally renowned for his ability to make and take a joke. A railroad employee, whose home is in Avon, came on Saturday night to ask for a pass to visit his family.

"You are in the employ of the railroad?" inquired the gentleman alluded to.

"Yes."

"You receive your pay regularly?"

"Yes."

"Well now, suppose you worked for a farmer instead of a railroad, would you expect your employer to hitch up his team every Saturday night and carry you home?"

This seemed a poser, but it wasn't.

"No," was the prompt reply, "I would not expect that, but if the farmer had his team hitched up, and was going my way, I should call him a darned mean cuss if he would not let me ride."

Mr. Employee came out three minutes after with a pass for twelve months.

The manner in which DeLesseps won his wife was a very singular one. He had brought to the ladies in France a great number of Jericho roses, and was distributing them at an evening party. He stopped before the young brunette who is now Mrs. De. L., and said: "It is not in my power to make this rose bloom afresh (every one knows the legend of Jericho roses), but express a desire, in accepting it, and I swear that it shall be accomplished." "I desire—whatever you wish," murmured the young girl. "Well," said De Lesseps, "I wish you to be my wife." And she is.

The Montana and Telfair sailed this afternoon at four, the former carrying an assorted cargo for San Francisco—the latter for Victoria with a full load mostly flour.

Flour has been coming down from the valley during the week in considerable quantities, the total receipt by river steamers being upwards of 25,000 sacks. A considerable quantity of this is in store while much of it has been shipped for San Francisco and Victoria by the two ocean steamers.

Oats are coming to hand in larger quantities but find ready sale, though prices are low, the best bringing no more than 44@46.

In groceries and dry goods, trade is slightly improving. No changes are noticed.

HIRAM SMITH'S Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS GRANULATED LIDS FILMS &c, as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity to which the following persons will bear witness:

E B MOORE,	NATHANIEL BELL,
A L WALLACE,	G R WARD,
